BOARD OF HEALTH COMMITTEES WILL INSPECT ALL DAIRIES

Action Taken to That Effect at Regular Meeting Friday Evening

43 MEASLES CASES REPORTED

The Charleroi Board of Health at a meeting Friday evening arranged for the health officer and a committee from the board to make a tour of inspection to the dairies which handle milk in Charleroi, and to learn first hand the sanitary conditions.

Action was taken to this effect after it had been reported that some of the milk coming into the borough was not of the highest standard. The committee will visit the dairy stables and view the cows. If it is found that the stables are in bad condition from a sanitary point of view or that the laws are not being observed, the dairymen will be requested to fix them up. The committee will aid milkmen in this work.

The monthly report of the health officer was presented. His report showed there were 43 cases of measles, but no other diseases of consequence.

DRAFT BILL TO PASS TONIGHT

Late Messages Show House and Senate Will Concur on Bill

WILL HAVE A WIDE EFFECT

Authority to raise an army by selective draft will be given to President Wilson tonight, according to messages from Washington this afternoon. The end of the long legislative battle over the administration's military plan has about been reached.

The house agreed Friday night to vote today as a committee on the whole on Representative Kahn's amendment to the army bill, which substitutes the selective draft for the volunteer plan. The senate prior to this agreed to have a final vote on the bill tonight. Outside of consideration of the selective draft plan, which would effect every city, town and hamlet in the nation, national affairs apparently are at a rest. The English and French armies in France are continuing their terrific successful drives against the Germans.

TENTH REGIMENT COMPANIES MARCHED AWAY 19 YEARS AGO

Month of April Notable Because of Leaving of Soldier Boys

CARRIED OLD SPRINGFIELDS

Just nineteen years ago Company A, Monongahela and Company H, Washington, Tenth regiment, Pennsylvania volunteer infantry, marched away to answer President McKinley's call for 125,000 volunteers in the war against Spain in '98. That day, which was one of the most exciting since the days of the Civil war, was only rivaled when the two companies marched away last June for service on the Mexican border, although it was believed that they were going into Mexico.

The 19th of April, 1898, is still fresh in the memory of the people of Monongahela valley and Washington, especially the boys who after bidding farewell to their relatives and friends some of them for the last time marched away to answer the call to the colors.

Washington was the home of Col. Alexander L. Hawkins, commander of the "Fighting Tenth," and the regimental headquarters were located there. Colonel Hawkins was a veteran of the Civil war and had been colonel of the Tenth since February 27, 1879.

For several days the two companies had been expecting orders to move, and on the afternoon of April 26, which ordered him [illegible] report with his regiment at Mt. Gretna.

The boys of the Tenth were attired in heavy marching uniforms and the equipment consisted of the blue uniforms that are now almost obsolete, campaign hats, knapsacks and canteens, while they carried the old style 45-calibre single shot Springfield musket, which has long since passed out of use and even at that time was considered an old-style military weapon. When the soldiers reached the station good-byes were said to mothers and fathers, wives and children, sisters and sweethearts and they were off for the war.

ELIJAH CHORUS REHEARSES AT HIGH SCHOOL AUDITORIUM

Two more general chorus rehearsals will be held prior to the rendition next Wednesday and Thursday of the Mendelssohn oratorio, "Elijah" by a local chorus. The Sunday afternoon rehearsal will be at 2 o'clock at the Majestic theatre and Monday evening at the Methodist Episcopal church, when the chief soloist, Thomas Morris, Jr., of Pittsburg, will rehearse with the chorus. Friday night at the high school auditorium the chorus went through all the choruses and connected up special parts.

PITT STUDENT IS KILLED BY TRAIN

Monongahela Valley Youth is Dragged Under Wheels of Car

MANY WITNESS ACCIDENT

Hurled under a train when a number of University of Pittsburg students engaged in a frolic at the Fourth avenue station Pittsburg Friday, Raymond Storer, aged 21, son of Allegheny County Detective Arthur Storer, of Elizabeth and a student at Pitt, was fatally injured. He died a few minutes later in the Mercy hospital ambulance enroute to the hospital. The accident occurred in view of a large crowd of persons who had just alighted from the train.

Young Storer, according to the information at the coroner's office, in company with other University of Pittsburg students from the Monongahela valley, had just alighted from the train when the accident occurred. Pushing and tugging with each other, the students started up the station platform towards Diamond street, bound for school. During the frolic Storer was pushed and before he could gain his balance he had fallen between two coaches and on the rail.

The train was pulling out and although a stop signal was given immediately, it was too late, one coach catching Storer and crushing him. he was dragged about 29 feet before the train could be brought to a stop. Storer was lifted from beneath the car and the Mercy hospital ambulance summoned. He was alive but unconscious, when placed in the ambulance. He died just as it reached the hospital.

ARBITRARY CONTROL.

Those who thought the limit had been reached will be surprised to learn there is no limit. Barely had we recovered from our astonishment over the discovery that a six cent loaf of bread is only a biscuit and the ten cent loaf only a decent sized five-center of former days, than we learn of another rebound. No longer will we be able to purchase the six cent ones, because they haven't the machinery to make them small enough and a man cannot knead a piece of dough the size of a peanut kernel. No longer will we be able either to supply the family for one meal with sufficient staff of life on a ten cent allowance. We must pay fifteen and be thankful it isn't any more.

There is talk that speculators have been busy. So persistent is the rumor that it is probably true to the uttermost. Flour is retailing at approximately $14.

One wonders who hid the silver lining to this cloud. There must be a silver lining though, and it is quite possible it will be in prompt governmental action—not investigation. There have been too many government investigations, too many commission reports too much census taking. What the people want is Uncle Sam to station himself behind the whole line and to give each individual speculator a good stiff boot. After that he ought to assume arbitrary control of the food situation, at least while the war lasts.

ANOTHER ADVANCE

In recognition of the high cost of living the Macbeth-Evans glass company has declared another increase in wages of employes. The increase will become effective May 14.

The advance follows similar advances in other lines of industry, the first to raise wages having been the United States Steel Corporation. After this concern other steel concerns followed with wage announcements, for in these days of competition for labor steel mills must keep pace with one another.

The local glass company leads among glass concerns. Last year when advances came as a matter of course the Macbeth-Evans factory was the first out with its announcement. Others followed.

Wage advances are extremely gratifying always, but particularly are they these days, with the purchasing power of the almight continually dropping. The one trouble is the inequality of advances, for such is the nature of present day progress that this of necessity is true.

WHAT OTHERS THINK

RIGHT TO CRITICISE.

Americans will never yield their democratic right to criticise public officials. Censorship is right and proper, under certain extraordinary conditions, such as may prevail during a war. It is to the best interests of the nation not to divulge maters which might be used to aid and comfort the enemy.

Nobody will object to a proper and sensible censorship. But any attempt to shield public officials, no matter what their station, from the effect of free and open criticism of their official acts, is un-American in theory and practice.

In America there never has been, and there never will be, any such doctrine as "The king can do no wrong." The curtailment of honest criticism, particularly through the medium of the public press, would be a vicious blow at the fundamental principles of democracy. Newspapers of character will respect the properties of wartime without a muzzle of any kind. But they will not submit to such restrictions as appear in the administration's espionage bill to prevent criticism of administration officials in the conduct of public business. Fearless and honest criticism of public policies is helpful and must not be interfered with.—Connellsville Leader.

THE PESKY FLY AGAIN

Flies constitute one of the greatest discomforts of life in the country and while entomologists and statisticians and other people with titles, working at desks, may figure how easy it is to get rid of flies, the housewife in the country knows better. It isn't.

But it is possible to do more than most people attempt, and without much difficulty. Screened barns, kept clean, with a few shallow pans of formaldehyde solution placed about them in safe places, will do much to kill flies and to prevent their multiplication.

Keeping the manure spread constantly, or storing it in a covered pit, is perfectly practicable and will help. About the house there should be no careless pitching out of waste and garbage. Keep all refuse in metal containers, under tight lids.

The infantile paralysis epidemic in New York resulted in the belief that flies spread this disease even though they do not cause it. Consequently, in the farming sections near New York a great deal of progress toward fly control was made last year by the simple and inexpensive means suggested.

Also, the children will develop a heathish enthusiasm for swatting 'em, if taught the habit, encouraged, and provided with swatters.—Farm and Fireside.

AN UNFASHIONABLE FISH.

Fine In Flavor and Food Value, Yet Our Anglers Discard It.

It seems as if there are fashions in fish just now as there are in wearing apparel. A fish that brings in German markets nearly four times as much per pound as our fresh mackerel and considerably more than haddock is thrown away by our fishermen because no one wants to eat it. Yet those who eat it praise it for its delicate flavor. Even the English like it. Every year they consume great tons of it. Yet we will have none of it.

This fish is known as the goosefish anglerfish devilfish and monkfish. True, its appearance is against it, but still the epicures in England and Germany demand it because it is delicious. Analyses made by the bureau of fisheries on samples show that goosefish contains considerably more protein than flounder, slightly more than a cod, a little less than halibut and considerably less than sirloin steak.

The goosefish has an average length of three feet and is broad and flat, somewhat resembling the flounder in general outline. The only way to get it, says a Philadelphia woman, is for the housewives to club together and demand it. At the present time fishermen do not take the trouble to bring it home, but discard it from their nets.—Popular Science Monthly.

CLAWS OF THE CANARY.

They Should Be Carefully Trimmed Every Few Months.

As a canary grows old it will be noticed that its claws get long and catch on the perches and wires as it hops about the cage. In a state of nature the activity of the bird as it moves about on the ground or among twigs and limbs keeps the claws properly worn down. Confined in a cage, the canary is less active, and, while the rate of growth of the claws remains the same, they are subject to much less abrasion.

It is necessary therefore to trim them with a pair of sharp scissors every few months. It is important to watch the condition of the claws carefully, as by catching they may cause a broken leg. In each claw a slender blood vessel extends well down toward the tip. This may be seen on close examination through the transparent sheath of the claw. In trimming cut well beyond this canal and take special care not to break the leg while handling the bird.

In cage birds the horny covering of the bill as well as the claws sometimes becomes distorted through growth without sufficient wear. The tips of the mandibles may be pared down with a sharp knife, but care must be taken not to cut deep enough to reach the quick.—United States Department of Agriculture Bulletin.

If She Were Free.

A woman of criminal tendencies serving a prison term was asked, "If you were given absolution, freedom to spend one night in the great city wholly uncontrolled, where would you go—to the theater, dance hall or where?" She replied: "I would choose a warm night after a rainy day, a night when all the electric lights wore halos around their heads and everything was foggy. I'd go to the park and walk for an hour up and down the paths, where I could see the reflections of the misty lights in the wet stone pavements. Then I'd like to go to some quiet place where I could hear organ music for another hour. Then I'd go to bed satisfied. But before I got to bed I'd open and shut my door for five minutes steadily. I'd want to know that it wasn't bolted!"—Buffalo News.

The B. Y. M. has read somewhere in his youth that B. Y. men are supposed to fall in love with and marry the boss' daughter. And he sits and stares at her, nervous as the dickens because he can't decide which is worse—losing his job or following precedent.

And the daughter plays the tune she knows on the piano and wonders "Whatever possessed father to bring that around here?"—New York Evening Sun.

A Slap at Her Complexion.

"Is it true that Mrs. Dubwaite and Mrs. Twobble are no longer on speaking terms?"

"Yes. I fear the breach will never be healed."

"What did they fall out about?"

"They met on the street one day. Mrs. Dubwaite said to Mrs. Twobble, 'My dear, how do I look?' Mrs. Twobble kissed her effusively and said, 'My dear, you are a work of art!'"—Birmingham Age-Herald.

"What a loss! It was destroyed, of course?"

"No; Glithers bought the stock from a promoter. It was too full of water to burn."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

A Concession.

"After looking at the postal stamps of other countries, I have come to the conclusion that you can't beat ours."

"Maybe not, but, all the same, it gets lots of lickings."—Exchange.

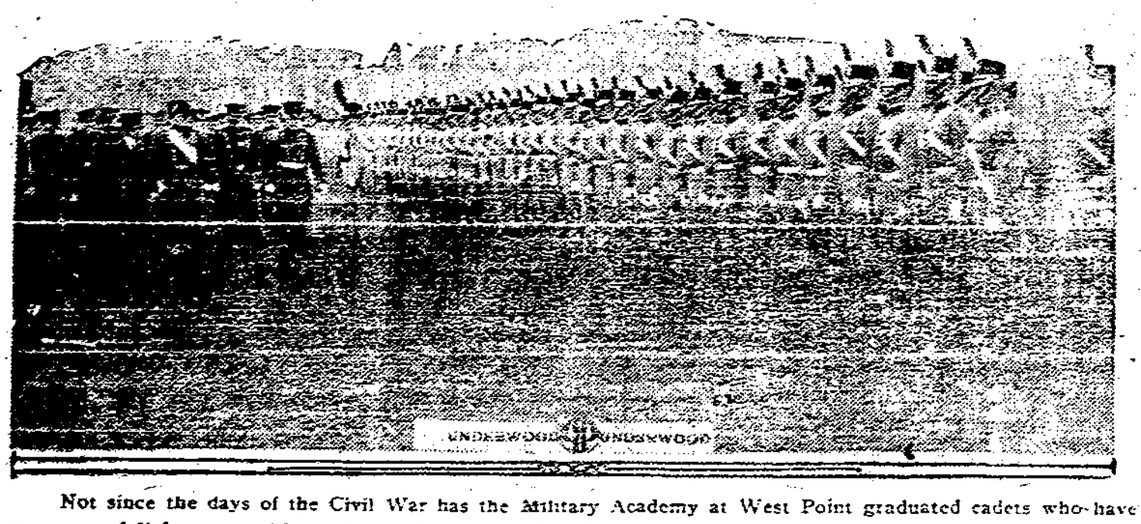
PRECEDENT IS LOST AS UNCLE SAM GRADUATES CLASS OF WEST POINT CADETS IN TWO YEARS



Not since the days of the Civil War has the Military Academy at West Point graduated cadets who have not spent a full four years in completing the course of study and military training. But a new order of things has come to pass, and Uncle Sam needs officers to direct a mighty army already in the process of formation. It has been estimated that 150,000 trained officers will be required to drill and groom units of the army scattered over the country. So this class of 139 West Pointers has been graduated in two years. The picture shows Secretary of War Newton D. Baker reviewing the cadets at West Point prior to the graduation exercises. The reviewing officers are Col. Henry, Secretary Baker, Gen. Scott, Chief of Staff; Col. John Biddle, superintendent of the academy, and Brig. Gen. William M. Black.

ABORNS TO APPEAR IN GRAND OPERA AT THE NIXON

The annual appearance of the Aborn Grand Opera company in Pittsburg has come to be looked for with as much certainty as spring itself, and this organization has established such a large following for itself there that is a foregone conclusion that their coming engagement, starting Monday night, April 30 at the Nixon theatre, will be greeted by large attendance.

The Nixon management inaugurated a mail order system a fortnight ago for the accomodation of out-of-town patrons, and as usual, music lovers in many cities and towns within a large radius from Pittsburg have taken advantage of this method of obtaining reservations.

The Aborn management will offer a larger variety of offerings within each week than they did in former seasons, for each week will bring three or more operas. In the first week the works of four different composers are announced: Verdi's "Il Travatore" for Monday night, Wednesday afternoon, Friday and Saturday nights; the double bill including, in one performance, the two one-act operas, Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana" and Leoncavallo's "Pagliacci" for Tuesday and Wednesday nights; and Gounod's "Faust" for Thursday night and the Saturday matinee.

The casts to appear at alternate performances in the opening week include favorites of former Aborn seasons in Pittsburg, as well as some important new members who have recently been acquired. The list includes Helena Morrill and Edith Helena, prima donna sopranos, Mario Rodolfi and Salvatore Giordano, tenors, Lillian Eubank, contralto, Marie Louise Biggers and Grace Baum, mezzo-sopranos, Morton Adkins and David Silva, baritones, George Shields, basso, Louis Derman, tenor-buffo, Carlo Nicosia, conductor and Karl Schroeder, stage director.

C. C. STERLING, BROTHER OF MRS. J. F. BOWMAN, DIES

John F. Bowman of Fifth street has received word of the death of her brother, C. C. Sterling of Morgantown, W. Va. The funeral will be held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Favor Prohibition.

Nation-wide prohibition as a war measure is to be urged upon President Wilson at the White House next Monday by an interpartisan committee of men, including governors of states representing every shade of political belief. At the call of Governor Harris of Georgia, the chief executives of various states will assemble on the same day in a formal body to discuss a program for a fight before congress to secure the passage of dry legislation.

Dressing Wounds With Sugar.

Dr. G. Magnus reports to the Therapeutische Monatshefte of Berlin on his success in treating wounds with ordinary sugar. This he sprinkles in a thick layer over a wound that has previously been washed and dried. He covers it with a dry dressing, which he renews every day.

The Journal of the American Medical Association says a great advantage of this dressing is that it does not stick to the wound, but stimulates a powerful secretion, which flushes out the depths of the wound, while profuse suppuration softens crusts and necrotic tissue and gives a chance for healthy granulation below. When this stage is reached salves or transplantation take the place of the sugar.

Naval Gunfire.

In the Napoleonic era the ships opened fire with guns at ranges of about 800 yards. The ships of today open fire at 22,000 yards range, and gunfire begins to be very effective at 18,000 yards. The torpedo as fired from surface vesels is effective up to 10,000 yards range, and this requires that a ship shall keep beyond this distance to fight her guns, says a British naval authority.

A Long Walk.

In 1890-1 an American woman walked from San Francisco to Franklin square, New York city. With two male companions and two dogs she set out on Aug. 27, 1890; she took the ferryboat from San Francisco to Oakland, but walked all the rest of the long and weary way.

Handy When There's a Fire.

A siphon of soda is an excellent fire extinguisher as the carbonic acid gas in the soda water helps to stifle the flames. The siphon can be tilted, and the fluid will carry to a considerable height, such as the top of a blazing curtain.

FISHERMEN WHO WEAR OFF GRASS WILL BE ARRESTED

Laws Against Trespassing to be Enforced Rigidly By Property Owners Near Linden

Nearly every farmer and smaller property owner along the creek from Linden to Eighty-Four has joined the organization farther down the stream in North Strabane township formed to prevent trespassing on the real estate holdings of the respective members. For several years past, it is claimed, fishermen have literally worn the grass off the bottom lands near the stream while in search of fish, frogs, turtles, and frequently big fires are built at night where fishermen may warm themselves, using fence boards and rails where they can find them as fuel.

The owners of the land say they are determined to break up trespassing and they will select an officer or two whose duty it will be to arrest all persons caught fishing or otherwise engaged.

John Fulton is president of the organization and John McClelland is secretary. Officers elected for the lower section are Crayford Fulton and J. R. White.

MALTAS STATE CONCLAVE TO BE HELD IN PITTSBURGH

Thousands of members of the Ancient and Illustrious Order Knights of Malta from every section of the state are preparing to attend the twenty-fifth annual convention of the Order to be held in Pittsburg from May 8 to 11 inclusive, and from the many enthusiastic reports received by the committees in charge, this session is expected to prove the greatest gathering of Knights of Malta ever held in Pennsylvania. By reason of this year being the silver anniversary of the order of this state, the committee is making an extra effort to far outshine all previous conventions.

The business session of the grand commandery will be held in the Moose Temple auditorium, 628 Penn avenue, and will be presided over by Grand Commander James P. Brady of Slatington.

WILL MEET HERE IN INTERESTS OF MEN AND MILLIONS MOVEMENT

A meeting of delegation from churches in Monessen, Belle Vernon, Monongahela and California will be held in the First Christian church here Sunday evening in the interests of the "Men and Millions Movement." It is expected a large delegation will be present from the different points.

Four members of the team of twenty who are conducting a campaign in Western Pennsylvania in the interest of the meeting will be present and have charge of the services. On Tuesday evening at 6:30 the women of the Christian church will serve supper to all the young people of the congregation between the ages of 15 and 25 years, and at that time the four speakers will again be present to talk in behalf of the work.

Advocates "Agricultural Branch" of U. S. Army

As the part the United States will play in the European war will be largely that of commissariat, the problems of the Secretary of Agriculture, David F. Houston, are many. At a conference in St Louis which was attended by representatives from all parts of the country it was decided to appeal to Congress to pass a bill guaranteeing a minimum price for all farm products and a minimum wage for all farm laborers. To supply France and England and Russia with food means a vast extension of American farming. To assure the production of larger crops, it has been proposed to place men rejected by the military or naval service in the "agricultural service," as a new department of the army, the men to be paid and to have rank and promotion.

GARDEN COLUMN

By National Emergency Food Garden Commission

SWEET CORN

Unless your garden space is large, do not attempt to grow sweet corn, advises a bulletin of the National Emergency Food Garden Commission, which is cooperating with this newspaper in the effort to make idle city lands produce food.

Corn as a garden crop should probably not be attempted on any plot of less than 2,000 square feet. As a small garden crop it is wasteful of space—that is, it produces relatively a small amount of food in proportion to the space it occupies, as compared with such compact crops as beets, spinach, peas and the like.

But if you have the space—as much space as there is in an average suburban or village garden—then there is no more profitable garden crop than sweet corn.

No other vegetable gains so much by being fresh. No other loses quality so quickly after being taken from the garden. A city dweller who has not eaten sweet corn freshly plucked from the stalks does not know the true flavor of this delicious and popular vegetable. The sugar, which gives it its characteristic flavor, quickly disappears and becomes starch after the ear has been pulled from the stalk.

Corn is a warm weather plant, which means that it must not be planted until frosts are over and the ground is beginning to warm up. The seed rots easily in cold or damp ground. At the same time corn cannot withstand drouth, so it should be planted in ground that has been deeply spaded so that it will hold moisture. Corn requires shallow wide hoeing about the stalks to conserve the moisture below.

Because of the necessity of wide and thorough cultivation during the growing season, corn is usually planted in "hills" or 3 feet apart, the hills being in rows 3 or 4 feet apart. But if your space is limited you can sow the seed in drills (trenches) 2 inches deep and thin out later to one stalk every 10 inches. Plant plenty of seed to allow for dead seeds and those which rot in the ground, a quarter of a pint being enough seed for a row 100 feet long.

Mighty Guns of British Navy Will Have Supreme Test in Future Engagement

The supreme test of the efficiency of British naval guns is yet to come, but there can be no doubt of the result. The battle off Jutland proved beyond peradventure of doubt that they have been no disappointment. This official photograph shows a section of the British fleet ready for action. The guns in the foreground are of the new type fifteen-inch rifles. The picture was made "somewhere on the Atlantic" while the fleet was patrolling the coast of the United States.
